

Committed to bridging the digital divide.

At Brightspeed, we believe in internet for all — the fast, reliable and secure kind. And we're on a mission to bring greater connectivity to every household and business across America.

Where you choose to call home shouldn't limit your options, so we're building the infrastructure to provide millions of homes like yours with high-quality internet. Because whether you're streaming, working or gaming, you deserve a smooth, uninterrupted experience.

As a company, we're committed to bridging the digital divide and empowering underserved communities. We're actively partnering with state and local governments to bring better internet service to rural and suburban communities, so everyone can be empowered to accomplish what's important — from working to learning, telemedicine to entertainment.

As fierce advocates for more accessible, inclusive and high-quality internet, we've developed a suite of educational guides to help make your online experience a safe and easy one. From creating an email address to searching for jobs and keeping your personal data safe, you'll find helpful information for connecting to what matters.
